Dad and son in golf club drama

RACHAEL

MCMENEMY

@rach_mc94CN

A FATHER and son have been praised for their actions which saved a man's life after he suffered a heart attack while playing golf.

Ellis Kerr and his dad Garry were halfway through a game at Haverhill Golf Club on Saturday, August 19.

Another golfer - known only as 'Mick' - had collapsed on the course minutes after meeting the Kerrs when his playing partner hit an errant ball in their direction.

Garry started to give CPR while 7-year-old junior golfing champion Ellis, ignoring his dad's instruction to stay put, sprinted to the club house for help.

Mr Kerr, 45, said: "I shouted for people around us to phone for an ambulance.
Then he just stopped breathing, I pushed him over and started CPR."

"I just kept on giving him
CPR but he was blue, I didn't think he would make it. It must have gone on for about 20 minutes."

"He'd fallen head first so his nose and mouth were bleeding."

"Even when the paramedic got there I had to keep doing CPR while he got the defibrillator out."

An air ambulance took the man to hospital for further treatment. It is understood he is still in hospital awaiting surgery.

Mr Kerr, who is a regular visitor to the golf course with his son, said the life-saving encounter was

"fate".

He added: "If the guy he was with hadn't hit such a wayward tee shot then there wouldn't have been anyone near him when it happened.

"The man's wife got in touch with me to say thank you for everything and how much she appreciated it."

Mr Kerr added: "I didn't realise until afterwards but Ellis had run all the way up the course to get help, all on his own."

"He's only 7. I thought he was still waiting for me where I left him."

"I just think what he did was so brave."

Mr Kerr, who works as a manufacturing supervisor, was previously first aid trained but never thought he would be the type of person to take control in a crisis.

"I've done a bit of it in the past and it just kind of kicked in," he said. "I always thought I wouldn't know what to do but it just takes over."

CRIME SCENE: Police investigate at the boarded-up Nisa store in Kedington
Right: The sign on the shop door on Thursday

Family's terror as gang rams into village shop

RAM-RAIDERS smashed their way into a village store as the owner and his family slept upstairs.

Dilip Visana said he and his family were woken in the early hours of Thursday by a gang breaking through security shutters at the shop – and feared they would try to get into their home.

The raiders repeatedly reversed into the front of the Nisa store in Kedington, near Haverhill, ransacked the cigarette counter and fled the scene.

One of Mr Visana's neighbours even tried to give chase by car, but lost sight of them.

Mr Visana said: "I live on top of the store with my family, I heard it and saw it happen and within five minutes they were in and out.

"Me, my wife, daughter, son and his girlfriend were all sleeping upstairs. We woke up when they first attempted to get in.

"Adrenaline was rushing through me, then panic set in and I was worried about whether they were going to try and go through the shop to the house.

"I phoned the police and have an alarm system with a panic button and all the neighbours called too."

He added: "Half the car was inside the shop.

"All the local people around the shop made phone calls to the police. One of our local customers even tried to follow the car at one point but lost them.

"Everyone has been very supportive. One of the local councillors even came out."

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@Rach_mc94CN

The attack caused damage to the front of the store he has owned for 12 years and to internal lighting and ceilings.

Suffolk police remained at the property until 2am yesterday while emergency repairs were carried out and the shop was boarded up. A note at the entrance said it would be closed while forensic investigations were carried out.

Police are appealing for information in the hunt for what they believe could be up to four raiders. They are also investigating whether this crime is linked to a ram-raid on another Nisa store in Red Lodge, near Newmarket, in the early hours of Saturday morning.

Of the Kedington attack, a police spokesman said: "A vehicle, believed to be dark in colour and possibly a SUV, was used to ram through the security shutters of the store.

"The suspects – thought to be up to four people – then forced entry into the store and stole a quantity of cigarettes before leaving the scene in the vehicle.

"Officers would like to hear from anyone who has not yet been in touch and who has witnessed any suspicious activity in the vicinity of the incident."

Anyone with information is asked to contact Bury St Edmunds CID on 101 quoting reference 56496/17, or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Samuel Ward pupils celebrate gaining impressive exam results

SUCCESS: Pupils at Samuel Ward Academy received an impressive set of GCSE results

@rach_mc94CN

PUPILS at Samuel Ward Academy have once again brought in an impressive set of GCSE results.

Last week's results showed that 63 per cent of pupils achieved a grade 4 or above in maths and 58 per cent achieved grade 4 or above in English under the new 9 to 1 grading system.

Of the 196 GCSE pupils, 99 per cent gained qualifications in maths and English.

Headteacher Kath Just praised the hard work of pupils, staff and parents for the great results.

"We are proud of all our pupils and the results they have achieved this year, at a time when changes have put added pressure on these young people," she said.

"I am particularly pleased that several pupils gained grade 9s, which are only awarded to the top three per cent of pupils in the country.

"The governors and I would like to thank everyone con-

Notable achievements include Olivia Farrington, Jess Sharman and Tillie Randall, who all achieved at least one grade 9.

Olivia, from Clare, gained two 9s, an 8, five A*s, four As and a B while Jess, from Wickhambrook, gained a 9, an 8, a 6, 5A*s, 3As and 3Bs – and Tillie, from Haverhill, achieved a 9, two 7s, 5A*s, 3As and 2Bs.

Dr Tim Coulson, chief executive of the Samuel Ward Academy Trust, said: "I would like to congratulate all staff and pupils for their work in achieving these results.

"We look forward to seeing the young people move on to great things."

Haverhill Property Update

Cheffins

Ryan Bourgaese, Associate, Cheffins comments:

In this column we are going to discuss the housing market around Haverhill and the local area and what both buyers and sellers need to be thinking about ahead of moving home.

To kick off we are looking at the property market in general. Whilst the UK housing market has been at the top of the news agenda for much of 2017 and I am pleased to report that for Haverhill, prices have stayed strong throughout the year and transaction levels have been high. August has been marginally quieter as people are enjoying their summer holidays, however we would expect more activity in the market in the autumn months as people look to move ahead of Christmas. When it comes to prices, the past 18 months has seen growth of around five to ten per cent depending on the type of property. Looking at average prices, we are seeing one bedroom flats selling for anything from £115,000 whilst a four bedroom detached property with a double garage could reach up to £450,000. Luckily for Haverhill, there are still options for more affordable housing for people and two bedroom houses can be bought for prices approximately £185,000. Values have been slightly static in the summer months but this is more due to seller expectations and realistic asking prices continue to be the most important element in achieving a successful sale.

Buyers in Haverhill are a mix of both local people either trading up to larger properties or downsizing, or those who are new to the area but are looking to commute to Cambridge. Haverhill still attracts a large number of first time buyers as prices remain more affordable than other local areas so flats are selling well and we have seen an increase in demand for two or three bedroom homes for young families. Property here still offers strong capital gains and rental yields of around 5 per cent, so investors and buy-to-let purchasers are still seeing good returns and are active in the market place for two or three bedroom properties. At the more expensive end of the spectrum, the majority of buyers who commute to Cambridge or the science and research parks in the Cambridge Cluster are looking to buy on the western side of Haverhill. These purchasers are generally looking for the larger more modern properties with the fastest access onto the A1307. The most popular areas amongst these purchasers include Hanchett End, Hanchett Grange, Hanchett Manor and Castle Reach.

The biggest news for the property market locally will be whether the campaign for the new train station is successful. If it is, it is likely we will see growth in prices almost immediately so people would be wise to invest within the local market early on. Haverhill is a town which has morphed and changed so much over the years that the reinstatement of the railway is likely to have profound effects on the town and will be a catalyst for rejuvenation of much of the town centre.

Once a fortnight we will be reporting on the state of the market so look out for our next column where we will look into the first time buyer market in more detail. For more information contact Cheffins on 01440 707076, haverhill@cheffins.co.uk, www.cheffins.co.uk

Castle Manor's best ever GCSEs

@rach_mc94CN

PUPILS at Castle Manor Academy have broken records celebrating their highest ever GCSE results.

The results show a rapid rise in the school's results with 62 per cent of students reaching the new threshold of a level four in maths and English, a significant increase of 16 per cent on the comparative A*-C grades last year.

Headteacher Vanessa Whitcombe paid tribute to pupils, staff and parents and said the results were incredibly strong in a year when schools have had to deal with many changes in the exams.

She added: "I am absolutely thrilled with the results at Castle Manor Academy.

"They are testament of a huge amount of hard work by the pupils, whose dedication and commitment

CELEBRATION TIME: Jade Linge with her results has earned them the results they deserve.

"I am extremely proud of all of them and they will have very bright futures. Such a rapid increase in results is testament also to the hard work and support from staff and parents, and I want to take the opportunity to thank them.

"Castle Manor Academy has seen many changes over the past two years, aimed at improving standards in the school.

"These results are an indicator that our strategies are having a strong and measurable impact. We are absolutely committed to continue this journey of improvement in the coming years."

With the closure of Castle Manor's sixth form, students will be continuing their studies at sixth forms like Samuel Ward Academy, Long Road and Hills Road, and at West Suffolk College and Cambridge Regional College.

Dr Tim Coulson, Chief Executive of the Samuel Ward Academy trust said: "These are the first results since the school joined the Trust and we are delighted to see such an excellent improvement. Many congratulations to pupils and staff."

Charity table top sale

I WISH to mention a forthcoming event at Haverhill Arts Centre.

On Saturday, there will be a table top sale at the arts centre, in High Street, between 10am and 1pm.

There will be lots of tables with a variety of activities, from face painting, crafts, charity tables, fundraising tables and tables promoting businesses.

We are hoping to see a few people on the day.

Many thanks.
Gill Luckett
Haverhill Arts Centre

Lots of fun at Thurlow Fayre

THURLOW Fayre 2017 will be staged on Sunday and will be opened by the Mayor of St Edmundsbury Borough Council Cllr Terry Clements.

For the first time there will be free admission for all children under the age of 16.

This tremendous gesture is due to the generosity of sponsors and it is hoped that parents will bring their children to enjoy a feast of activities geared towards making it a truly family fun day out.

The countryside theme, for which the fayre is renowned, will see both a flying falconry display and also a static display of birds of prey for children to get close to.

In addition, Gemma's Farm, who allow children to experience petting of small animals at close quarters, also organise the popular sheep racing in which children are encouraged to join in the fun by lying down in lines and allowing sheep to jump over them.

All the usual favourites, including bungee trampolines, a bouncy assault course, a giant slide, zorb balls, swing boats and pony and train rides will be there, while there will also be hula hoop, skipathon and welly wanging competitions for children and adults.

Lisa Mason School of Dance and Fire and Ice Majorettes have both been invited from Haverhill to perform their dance routines.

Belchamp Morris Men are also new this year, and will no doubt invite ladies from the crowd to participate with them in one of their displays, while Hadstock Silver Band will once again perform by the tea tent, where Thurlow WI will offer a tempting range of homemade sandwiches and cakes.

The Fun Dog Show is open to owners with 17 different classes and continues to draw record entries each year and the Classic Car Display also has increasing interest.

The craft fair stalls sell a lovely range of handmade arts and crafts and are a great testament to the artistic talent of so many in our area, and we also have local small businesses selling artisan food.

Thurlow Cock will be holding a Mini Beer Festival with a selection of craft ales from Mauldons, Woodforde's and Calverley's breweries as well offering as a range

SUMMER DELIGHTS: Haverhill In Bloom is holding a Fun day at St Mary's Church Yard between 11am and 3pm on Saturday, September 9. Weather permitting bring your own picnic and join in the fun. There will be refreshments, face painting, the Mayor of Haverhill in the stocks and others throughout the day to throw wet sponges at, plant stall and old tools, tombola, and other various stalls to help raise funds so that the group can continue to carry out projects in and around the town to make the environment more pleasing and attractive with flowers and plants.

■ Send your pictures in JPEG format marked 'Your View' to picturedesk@cambridge-news.co.uk. Please add your name, address and daytime telephone number, where you took the photo and, if possible, a picture of yourself! We reserve the right to reuse pictures at our discretion.

LOOKING BACK: Haverhill Family History Group members with expert Karen Young, second left, outside the library of tempting cocktails.

They will also be serving breakfasts for early arrivals, providing a barbecue with homemade sausages and burgers and also pulled pork.

There will again be a second large marquee to accommodate the produce show, history tent, bottle stall and grand draw, plus also the opportunity to guess the weight of a truckload of logs worth £185. The produce show with free entry is open to all exhibitors from the local area with entries open until 2pm. Details of classes are on the fayre website.

Haverhill Community First Responders are also attending, raising awareness of the use of a Cpad containing a defibrillator in the event of a cardiac arrest and will be fundraising throughout the afternoon as it is hoped to install one at Thurlow Village Hall.

Thurlow Fayre still remains fantastic value for money with admission price of £3 for adults with free parking directed to the Village Hall Meadow while the car boot sale is now £8 per car, for which people are advised to come early with the gate open from 8am.

Delve into your family history

THIS what will be on offer at the Haverhill Family History Group's Open Day on Saturday, September 9, from 10am until 3pm at Haverhill Library.

Whether you're just beginning or are 'stuck' at that proverbial 'brick wall' members of the group will be on hand to give one-to-one guided help and, together with expert genealogist Karen Young, we look forward to whatever you bring, so do come and challenge us.

We'll have the use of the library's computers plus our own, with free access to subscription sites such as Ancestry, Find My Past and The Genealogist so if you are looking for someone in, say, 2014 electoral registers, 1939 survey, 1911-1841 census or the 1839 tithe maps we've got it covered – and more.

We've also access to parish register records for many counties, including London, Essex, Cambridgeshire and of course Suffolk Family History Society's collection, some of these back to 1538 for your most distant ancestor perhaps?

Try taking a 'lucky dip' and see if your ancestors were ever in the news, for whatever reason(!), as we can search local and national papers too.

We can even help with house histories too – who lived there? And if that's a lot to take on board do stop for a refreshment break in the Haven Café right next door and sample one (or more) of their delicious Suffolk made cakes.

We hope to see you there.

The village that's becoming a victim of its own success

ONE village is so in demand that it's full to capacity and bursting at the seams.

If you were to imagine the epitome of village charm, then Linton in South Cambridgeshire would be top of the list.

But the village seems cursed by its own charm with countless planning applications bombarding councils to the point they feel "besieged" and services are unable to cope with growing demand.

The village has become so full that people have to wait six weeks for a doctors' appointment and even the parish council clerk Kate Wiseman says she can't get her child into the village's infant school.

Edith Bald chairwoman of the Linton Parish Council planning committee and a resident for 23 years, said: "We seem to be besieged by planning applications."

"We've had several large planning applications and the village only has about 4,500 people."

One plan for 95 homes on Back Road was rejected by South Cambridgeshire District Council but was immediately appealed by developers who also put in an application for 65 homes in Balsham Road straight after placing the appeal.

@rach_mc94CN

Mrs Bald said: "All the way through villagers have been opposed to this, we just can't take these big developments."

"The main thing is that it is impacting our quality of life."

Back in February hundreds of residents turned out to oppose the application by developers Gladmans for 95 new homes on Back Road.

But just why is Linton so popular? Linton is thought to be the only English village with both a vineyard and a zoo.

Among other big attractions are the Water Tower and footpaths leading to Rivey Hill.

Mrs Bald added: "We have such a special landscape. The village is very historic, we've got special conservation areas, it's an outstanding area."

"It's so charming and character-

CHARM: some of the Linton sights

ful with a lovely sense of community. We've got lots of clubs, activities and sport. It's quite a thriving village with a community who pull together."

We've got a lot of lovely shops, we've got an artisan bakery and organic vegetable shops and florists. It's such a special village and very pretty."

On top of over-subscribed schools and massive waiting times for appointments, villagers are worried that the town will become even more of a rat run for commuters desperate to avoid the A1307.

"We can take a small amount of people but not a whole lot of commuters."

"The schools are great, but they are full. It's a great village to live in, but we can't grow any more because there's no infrastructure."

"We've been built for a certain population and we're already exceeding it."

"The traffic is a real problem. We are being used as a rat run for the A1307 for people wanting to avoid it, especially the pinch point at Linton."

There are worries that the village will become a "commuter hub", something which worries some people.

Plus, according to the parish council, even the sewers are well past capacity.

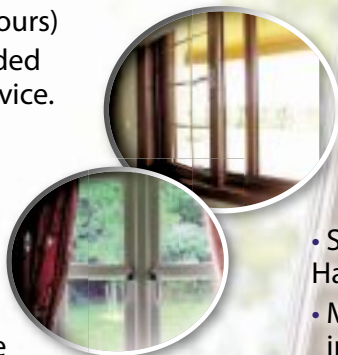

Mrs Bald said: "I know it's unpleasant, but literally not even the sewers can take it."

"The sewers don't have the capacity to deal with it. They get backed up, blocked and start overflowing already. It's really quite disgusting."

GOOD AS GOLD: Jonnie Peacock and Alexandra Burke at the launch of Strictly Come Dancing

Jonnie looks the part for Strictly

ANNA STARNES
@CambridgeNewsUK

THE stars of Strictly Come Dancing, including Cambridgeshire's Jonnie Peacock, strutted down the gold and silver carpet on Monday for the 15th season's launch show.

The event gave contestants a chance to show off their dance moves before they start training for the fierce competition.

Co-hosts Tess Daly and Claudia Winkleman kicked off the celebration, followed by this year's four judges: Darcey Bussell, Bruno Tonioli, Craig Revel Horwood and newcomer Shirley Ballas.

Shirley will be taking over from Len Goodman as head judge, The Mirror reported.

The contestants appeared decked out for the first time in their shimmering Strictly costumes.

Jonnie, from Doddington near Ely, is a double Paralympic champion and the first disabled celebrity contestant on the popular programme.

He appeared with Alexandra Burke, who glittered in an orange and gold ensemble with a daring neckline.

Jonnie, a single-leg amputee, won gold at the 2012 Summer Paralympics in London and again at the 2016 Paralympics in Rio, competing in the T44 men's 100 metres race.

He told the BBC: "I've got no previous dance history outside of the occasional 'worm' at a mate's party and I know this will be a challenge and a new experience."

"I can't wait to see what I can achieve and how far I can push myself."

The launch show will air on BBC One in September.

POLICE

Success as recorded crime falls by 10 per cent in a year

CRIME has fallen in Haverhill by 10 per cent in just a year, with common assault and harassment being eradicated.

The crime statistics – released after a Freedom of Information request – show that recorded crime fell from 2,571 cases in 2015-2016 to 2,302 for the year 2016-17.

Inspector Danny Cooper said: “The annual fall in reported crime for Haverhill is welcomed as positive news. Locally, and as a force, we work closely with partners to tackle both crimes against vulnerable people and the more traditional offences such as anti-social behaviour, burglary and theft.

“The main focus in Haverhill has been tackling drug abuse and issues associated with multi-occupancy homes. This will continue to be our priority.”

From the financial year 2015-2016 to 2016-2017 many types of crime have fallen or appear to have been eradicated entirely with no recorded cases.

Common assault and battery fell from 115 recorded cases to none, harassment plummeted from 24 to zero and recorded rape cases went down slightly from 24 to 22.

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

Inspector Cooper continued: “There is still lots of work to be done, and I know that this small reduction in offences will not be of comfort to those that have been a victim of crime.”

The figures show that there were more cases of drug possession recorded in Haverhill than last year, up from 17 in 2015-16 to 51 in 2016-17.

Other crimes also saw an increase in recorded cases including arson, burglary in a dwelling, possession of weapons and criminal damage.

Between 2015-16 and 2016-2017, arson doubled from 12 recorded cases to 24, burglary in a dwelling rose from 35 to 68, possession of weapons increased fivefold from 7 to 35 and criminal damage skyrocketed from 149 cases to 342.

As previously reported, violence with injury cases spiked with recorded cases going from 108 to 265.

Inspector Cooper added: “I would like to take this opportunity to thank all those officers and staff for their dedication and hard work as they strive to make Haverhill a safer place to live and work.”

Love your home and garden this Summer

EVEN YOUR GRASS, PLANTS AND FLOWERS HAVE THE POST-HOLIDAY BLUES

Returned from holiday to find bedraggled plants, an overgrown lawn, herbs and flowers which have run to seed and a glut of crops you couldn't give away? So, what do you do?

Don't despair

The rain we've had this summer may have gone some way to saving flower borders, but containers left in sheltered spots may have dried out without the luxury of an automatic irrigation system, or a friendly neighbour to water them in your absence.

Guy Barter, RHS chief horticultural adviser, reckons that if your bedding plants haven't dried out completely, you should have a month of good growing weather left in the south of the country and a little less in the north.

"The recent wet weather will have helped gardens enormously, but containers are still likely to be fairly dry, so you need to give them a really good soak, deadhead the flowers and give plants a good feed," he advises.

Cut back and feed container plants

Container plants, including petunias, can be cut back and should produce another burst of growth, provided the slugs haven't devoured the base of the plants during the rainy period, he says.

ADVERTISING FEATURE

You should also be able to give trailing plants such as lobelia and bacopa a haircut and a feed, to prompt them into further flowering.

Watch out for slugs

"People who have been away during the wet weather should be prepared to come back to find a lot of slug damage," he adds. "They will eat petunias around the base and feast on hosta leaves, and the plants will not produce more leaves this year."

It may be wise to feed vulnerable plants with nematodes, biological controls which are specifically designed to attack slugs and vine weevil. Be aware that many biological controls become less reliable when the temperature drops, as the predatory insects which provide the control then multiply more slowly. Check for greenfly and blackfly and take off shoots on plants which are infested and dispose of them.

Grab plant bargains

"You can also get some plant bargains at garden centres at this time of year, including herbaceous perennials such as delphiniums and lupins, which have finished flowering, but should grow strongly next year and hopefully be free of mildew."

Tackle overgrown lawns

You may be returning to long grass, which will have been growing thanks to the mixed weather we've had in summer. When tackling it, Guy recommends not taking off more than a third at a time until it has recovered and don't feed the lawn until autumn.

As for vegetables, you should be returning home to bumper crops, although tomato blight tends to appear in warm, wet weather and if your plants succumb, there's not a lot you can do apart from consign them to the bonfire.

Giant veg may have to be ditched

"You may have enormous marrows when you actually wanted courgettes and rather tough, stringy beans which have been left too long for picking. But some of the overgrown veg could go into chutneys."

Lettuces may have bolted or been damaged by slugs and if they are, lift them and replace them with other crops such as Chinese leaves and spinach, while mustard seeds can also be sown for green manure. Spring onions can also be sown now, where they are to mature and left to overwinter until they are ready for harvesting in spring.

And if all else fails...

Steal a march on the cooler months by clearing out wilted bedding plants from pots and invest in some spring bulbs and other plants for autumn and winter.

MISSING MAN

Corrie McKeague's mother shares photo of his daughter

ANNA STARNES

@CambridgeNewsUK

THE mum of missing RAF man Corrie McKeague shared a photo of his two-month-old daughter spending time with her family.

Nicola Urquhart posted the photo of one of Corrie's brothers feeding Ellie-Louise on the Find Corrie Facebook page.

She wrote: "Some days are difficult. Trying to find something positive in each day always helps. I am sharing a photo with each of you on this page, it was taken this morning while we were all sitting in the Suffolk sunshine."

Nicola said that seeing Ellie-Louise with her sons strengthens her.

She added: "This is the hand of one of my son's being held by the daughter of his brother. This photo, to me, is simply beautiful. It gives me a strength I never realised I have."

Corrie, 23, disappeared on September 23, 2016, on a night out in Bury St Edmunds. Corrie was not aware that his girlfriend April

Police investigating his disappearance believe he climbed into, and then fell asleep in, a bin behind a Greggs' bakery in the town.

Police launched a massive search of the Milton landfill but announced investigation.

While the review is being carried out the area of the Milton landfill that was searched – known as cell 22 – will not be disturbed.

Nicola Urquhart's full post said: "Some days are difficult. Trying to find something positive in each day always helps. I am sharing a photo with each of you on this page, it was taken this morning while we were all sitting in the Suffolk sunshine."

"This photo, to me, is simply beautiful. It gives me a strength I never realised I have."

"There are still so many unanswered questions about what has happened to Corrie, but I do feel confident that all these will be investigated and answered."

"So many of you keep asking questions we are also still asking, I just wanted to let you all know my determination to find Corrie is as strong as ever."

"Thank you for continuing to support me, my son's and our family I wish you knew just how much it has and continues to help."

ROYAL ANNIVERSARY VOYAGE

THE 50th anniversary of the revered Cunard liner QE2 is to be marked next month by a special voyage of her near namesake, Queen Elizabeth, pictured.

During five specially themed days during a 17-night cruise to Venice, guests will be treated to gala menus inspired by the liner, and talks from special guests who each have personal connections with QE2.

Celebrations culminate on QE2 Day - September 20 - exactly 50 years since the ship was launched by Queen Elizabeth.

Events will include a QE2 ball, and a historical retrospective of the ship - which retired in 2008 - hosted in Queen Elizabeth's 850-seat Royal Court Theatre. The voyage departs from Southampton on September 8.

Packing plenty of cake and coffee, JULIAN WELLEN paddles out on a Scandi adventure

THE Scandinavians seem to have special words for everything and we love adopting them - from that old Swedish favourite, smörgåsbord, to newcomers, such as the Danish hygge.

The one that will soon be on everyone's lips has to be "fika" - coffee and cakes to be taken any time, anywhere.

A well-known Swedish home store has a cafe called Fika, in which customers can take a break from negotiating its labyrinthine layout.

But visiting Gothenburg and West Sweden, I learned that the best place for fika is in a sea kayak.

I set out to experience the region's coastal lifestyle and cuisine and the view from the plane, approaching Gothenburg, revealed a stunning coastline, dotted with islands and bays.

Just over an hour-and-a-half's drive up the coast is Fiskebäckskil, in Bohuslän province, a pretty former fishing village - now mostly holiday homes - where we were staying in Slipens, a new hotel with cool Scandi décor in a 100-year-old shipyard.

(A handy tip on pronunciation that I picked up is "k" and "sk" are sometimes pronounced as "sh"... and sometimes not.)

Slipens also runs the excellent Brygghuset seafood restaurant, featuring the Swedish staple, herring, in numerous tasty guises. After a delicious buffet lunch we headed out to Grundsund, a couple of miles along the coast where we were booked in for our kayak trip.

Christina Ingemarsdotter of Kajak i Grundsund has been paddling kayaks for 40 years and clearly loves it just as much now as when she first picked up a paddle.

After a land-based lesson and a practice paddle around the harbour using muscles we didn't even know we had, we headed out to sea. The wind had got up and we paddled hard to get into the lee of the numerous small islands of smooth, pink granite, rising from the water like great hippos' backs.

Once in the calmer water we could enjoy the peace and beauty of the area, the sea-level opening up a completely different perspective on life and the landscape.

We finally pulled over to the rocks for fika, looking for a likely picnic spot - or even a cafe - until Christina threw open the hatch on her kayak to reveal a flask of coffee and a bowl of cinnamon buns.

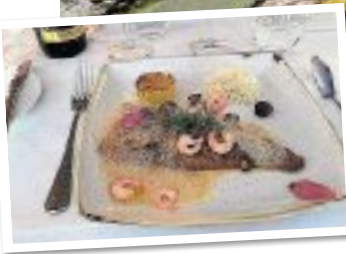

What better way to enjoy fika than floating gently on the water with sea and rocks around us and starfish visible in the clear water beneath?

Once back at Fiskebäckskil, another feast of fish lay ahead in Brygghuset, which also has a whisky bar with 1,500 malts - another

Swede dreams

Exploring the myriad islands of Bohuslän, West Sweden, by sea kayak. Inset left, flounder fillet in brown butter with shrimp and horseradish at the Michelin-starred Sjömagasinet restaurant in Gothenburg reason, if you needed one - to stay.

My otherwise perfect sleep was broken by a dramatic light at 4.30am and a stunning sunrise - prelude to a clear, sunny day.

From Fiskebäckskil it's a short ferry hop to Lysekil, where Lars Marstone and Adriaan Von Plasse run mussel safaris on their 67-year-old boat. We sailed, happily soaked by the waves, until we reached Lars's idyllic island, where his wife, Majvor, was waiting.

While Adriaan cooked up mussels in wine, cream and chopped veg, Lars opened some oysters - which divers harvest by hand - as fresh as they come. Of course the meal was finished with a fika.

Lysekil is also home to the Havets Hus aquarium, where you can see and touch some of the local species of sealife and learn about the valuable efforts to preserve their habitats and restock the waters.

Back at Fiskebäckskil, we checked in at the Gullmarsstrand spa hotel with its waterside yoga studio and a hot tub on the jetty, where you can relax before plunging into the sea for an invigorating swim before returning to the tub to enjoy the all-over tingle of the hot water. Finish off with a sauna and shower and you're ready for anything.

Sitting and watching the sun set over the water as children fished from the jetty was the perfect end to an excellent meal at the hotel restaurant and to our all-too short stay on the coast.

We were heading to the city, and Gothenburg proved the perfect place for a city break, with its old "long streets", just west of Linnégatan, that have gone from being a rough, edgy part of town to a hub of stylish shops, hipster bars, courtyard cafes and designer shops for anyone seeking some Scandi chic.

Also reinvented, the excellent

Comfort Hotel looks out over the harbour and ferry terminal and has a deservedly popular rooftop bar with the best views in town.

Like some of our own large ports, Gothenburg has had to reinvent itself after the loss of its shipbuilding industry, becoming a cultural and hi-tech hub - a far cry from its early days as a fortified trading colony with walls to keep out the marauding Danes.

The 17th century moats are now peaceful canals, where boats will take you on a sightseeing tour around the old city and out into the river Gota. You could even paddle round in a kayak - fika not provided, although the local Hagabullen (a Frisbee-sized cinnamon bun) would be ideal. The city's beautiful botanic gardens offer a space to recharge your batteries with a spectacular rose garden and the palm house - built in 1878 and inspired by Crystal Palace - filled with exotic plants and cacti.

Back on the seafood theme, the Michelin-starred Sjömagasinet, a short ferry ride down the river, provided an unforgettable waterfront meal - as unforgettable as the rest of this beautiful part of the world.

Rock out with these live wires

To get things off to a flying start this week we have Yerma (today), a National Theatre live broadcast starring Billie Piper as a woman driven to the unthinkable by her desperate desire to have a child. This radical production of Federico Garcia Lorca's play is set in contemporary London with 21st century speech rather than in rural Spain but is loyal to the original and Billie Piper, according to reviews, is "earthquaking".

Live/Wire, The AC/DC Show is a unique six-man tribute to one of rock music's greatest bands complete with cannons, a wall of Marshalls and over two hours of high voltage Rock 'n' Roll. Original front man Bon Scott was a wild man of rock and roll, whose untimely death shocked the world in 1980.

The first part of the gig features songs such as Dirty Deeds to Highway to Hell with Bon's inimitable attitude, style and charisma. Brian Johnson filled the void left by Bon with Back in Black, one of the best-selling rock albums of all time. The second half of the gig brings the band up to date with classic "Brian" songs and includes some tracks from AC/DC's recent, and hugely successful, new album, Rock or Bust.

Enjoy hit after hit tomorrow.

Saturday morning this week sees the return of the ever popular Table Top Sale. Like a car-boot but without the threat of a soggy bottom. Grab a bargain between 10am and 1pm.

It is time to release those tartan trousers from the suitcase in the attic, and maybe treat yourself to some blonde spiky highlights as we go back to the seventies on Friday, September 8 with a gig from Wrong Stewart and the Farces. Gravelly voiced Graham Buxton performs classics by Rod Stewart including Maggie May, Hand Bags and Gladraggs, Hot Legs and Stay With Me.

There's a change of tempo with Stephen Smyth on Sunday, September 10. Stephen, who used to perform with the show band The Indians as well as Dominic Kirwan, is now regarded as one of Ireland's most versatile entertainers. Join him for some old favourites at 7.30pm.

Carole King is one of the most successful songwriters not just of her generation, but ever. No, exaggeration! On Thursday, September 14, The Australian singer Niki Dee performs songs from Carole's album Tapestry, which topped the US album for more than six years. She also sings songs that you definitely know but maybe didn't know that Carole had written, songs like: Something Tells Me I'm Into Something Good, The Locomotion and (You Make Me Feel Like) A Natural Woman. Catch Carole King's Tapestry in Concert at 7.30pm.

On the screen, we have: An unlikely romance with an American widow (Diane Keaton) who meets a social recluse living wild on Hampstead Heath (Brendan Gleeson). Annie Hall with added dandelions? Be charmed with Hampstead on Monday at 1.30pm. The much admired Dunkirk is playing at the Arts Centre on Tuesday (and again on the September 13 and 25). Christopher Nolan's film charts the evacuation of more than 330,000 Allied troops from the beaches of Dunkirk in 1940. The ensemble cast includes Fionn Whitehead, Cillian Murphy, Mark Rylance, Tom Hardy and, in a surprise move, Harry Styles of 1D fame.

We are showing The Zookeeper's Wife (postponed from July) on Wednesday. It is the story of a couple who risk their lives, in the Second World War, to use their once thriving zoo as a front to smuggle hundreds of Jews to safety. On Thursday, September 12, Catherine Deneuve and Catherine Frot star as two diametrically opposed women who have to come to rely on each other. The Midwife is a Reel Culture film is in French with English subtitles.

Don't miss other up and coming shows such as The All That Jazz Club with Georgia Mancio (Saturday, September 30), fingerstyle guitarist Thomas Leeb (Sunday, October 1) and State of the Union with Brooks Williams and Boo Hewerdine (Thursday, October 5).

● Thursday, August 31 – 7pm: Yerma

Enhanced performance from latest BMW model

THE sixth-generation BMW M5 will make its appearance in the UK next February.

The new model comes with an enhanced 600bhp V8 engine, a new M-specific all-wheel drive system known as M xDrive and performance statistics that surpass all previous models.

Its power comes from the latest 4.4-litre engine with BMW M TwinPower turbo technology which delivers a maximum torque of 750Nm, accelerating the new M5 from zero to 62mph in just 3.4 seconds, making it the fastest M5 yet. Top speed is restricted to 155mph.

Despite the performance figures, BMW is claiming an official fuel return of 26.9mpg with emissions of 249g/km.

Power is transferred to the road via a new eight-speed M Steptronic transmission with Drivelogic.

BMW say the key to this level of performance is the introduction of M xDrive and its adaptability thanks to a central control module and the variety of different dynamic modes.

When first started, the car is in four-

POWER: The BMW M5 surpasses all previous models wheel-drive mode with the dynamic stability control switched on. But it comes with various driving dynamics modes, up to a track-friendly pure rear-wheel drive.

The design of the new BMW M5 is specific to M models which come with a completely redesigned front bumper and the bonnet is made of aluminium, while the roof consists of a very light carbon fibre reinforced plastic.

On the inside the new M5 offers space for up to four passengers, a large boot and high levels of comfort the same as those of the 5-Series saloon.

The driver faces a large digital display similar to the BMW 5-Series but it has been reconfigured specifically for the M5.

It informs the driver about dynamic modes, the all-wheel drive M xDrive and the Drivelogic setting. The speed warning alarm is adjustable and shift lights inform the driver when it is the optimal time to change gear in manual shift mode. The data can also be reflected in a head-up display.

Prices have yet to be announced.

Revamps for Lexus NX and CT

LEXUS is to reveal updated versions of its NX SUV and CT premium hatch at the Frankfurt Motor Show in September.

The two models have undergone subtle restyles inside and out with smoother body lines and upgraded interior trim and equipment.

The NX, launched three years ago either with a hybrid or turbo petrol powertrain has proved popular on the crossover scene, while the CT 200h hatchback has established itself as the 'baby' of the Lexus range with wide appeal to younger buyers.

The two newcomers will be having their European premieres at the Frankfurt show which opens on September 12.

The Japanese luxury brand will also be displaying its two new flagship models – the latest LS limousine and the LC coupe.

Airstream caravans making a comeback

THE iconic American Airstream brand will officially relaunch in the UK at October's Motorhome and Caravan Show 2017, the UK's largest leisure vehicle show.

After a couple of years' absence, Airstream returns with the appointment of a new UK distributor.

Three new models for the UK include the flagship four-berth Colorado retailing at £99,195, as well as the smaller Yukon and Missouri models.

Manufactured since the 1930s, 70 per cent of Airstreams made are still in use around the world, with celebrity owners including Brad Pitt, Colin Farrell, Tom Hanks, Sandra Bullock and Matthew McConaughey.

It is estimated that almost £2 billion was spent on caravan holidays across Great Britain in 2016, with over 50 million nights spent in caravans each year.

The industry employs some 130,000 people and there are over 1.7 million caravans and motorhomers in the UK.

An estimated 555,000 touring caravans, 205,000 motorhomes and over 300,000 caravan holiday homes are in use in the UK.

The Motorhome and Caravan Show 2017 runs from October 17 to 22 at Birmingham's NEC.

Tickets are on sale now and start from £8.50. Children 15 and under enter free.

Quality counts for the new-look Qashqai

FROM pencil line to production line, the Nissan Qashqai is as British as they come.

Conceived at Nissan's design studio in London, engineered at its technical centre at Cranfield in Bedfordshire and built at the Nissan factory in Sunderland, the Qashqai has made millions for UK plc.

Since it first appeared 10 years ago some 2.3 million have been made, most have been exported and 450,000 snapped up in Britain.

It's our favourite crossover and last month was number three in the nation's Top 10 new car sales charts, pipped to the post only by the Ford Focus and VW Golf – both of which are made in Germany.

Now there's a new Qashqai on the way with the second generation model – launched in 2014 – getting a heavy facelift inside and out.

As mid-life makeovers go the changes are radical and see the latest Qashqai with sharper lines, a reshaped bonnet and grille and some shiny body highlights.

There's also a new range topper in the form of a Tekna+ model which comes with Nappa leather upholstery in a distinctive 3D pattern, a high-end Bose sound system and a sporty-looking D-shaped steering wheel.

IMPROVED: The new Qashqai

In such guise it is now poised to spend more than £30,000 on a Qashqai – a far cry from the £23,249 it cost to get behind the wheel of the poshest Qashqai back in 2007.

Back then the range started from a shade under £13,500. Now it kicks off at £19,295 but what's onboard is light years ahead and the latest Qashqai is still a pacesetter.

The Qashqai Tekna+ 1.5-litre diesel tips the scales at £30,325 and that includes a Vivid Blue metallic paint job which accentuates the new car's lines a treat.

For a family hatch-cum-SUV the cabin is very upmarket – albeit it overly black and that included the headlining – and the seats, taken from a specification devised by NASA are exceptionally comfortable.

There's carbon-effect trim in the dash, chrome handles on the doors and the technology features the latest generation of the NissanConnect system which uses a seven-inch touchscreen for full connectivity and satellite navigation.

The Bose digital sound system is genuinely impressive with eight speakers front and rear. The tonal quality is quite exceptional, even at motorway speeds.

Other smart technology includes automatic emergency braking, automated parking, cross traffic sensors when reversing and an auto hold function with the electronic parking brake.

On the road it feels sharper to handle than the previous Qashqai and noise levels have been improved although mechanically there is little difference.

The 1.5-litre diesel is well proven across the Nissan-Renault Alliance and with 110ps on tap results in 0 to 60 time of 11.9 seconds, a maximum of 113mpg and an official fuel return of 74.3mpg with emissions of 99g/km no matter what size of wheel is fitted – and the Tekna+ sat on 19-inch rims.

We saw an average of 51.9 to the gallon which is well acceptable for a family car.

The Bose set up eats into the luggage space a little and the Tekna+ has a boot of 401 litres extending to 1,569 – about a rucksack less than you'll get in other grades of Qashqai.

As before, it is well composed and behaves without issue either in traffic or when cruising which makes the Qashqai an exceptional all-rounder.

Few cars can hit the mark in such fashion and with the current trend for upmarket models, breaking the £30,000 barrier will prove no obstacle.

Indeed, Nissan calculates that almost half of all Qashqais sold in the next few months will be high specification models.

Without doubt, the Qashqai's rein as king of the crossovers looks set to continue for many a year to come.

Car thieves get smart

IT was just too good to last – the car thieves are wising up after a period of being frustrated by modern technology.

Gone are the days of the hot wire nasties who could make your car disappear in seconds.

Now criminals are more likely to be computer savvy, warns vehicle tracing experts Tracker.

Recent reports indicate an increasing new trend in vehicle theft termed 'relay attack', that allows criminals to overcome existing vehicle security technology, such as immobilisers and keyless entry systems.

This new style attack uses a relay device and involves two criminals working together.

One stands near the car being targeted and the other stands near the front door of the owner's home to get in range of the key fob – often left on hallway tables or kitchen worktops.

The device then picks up the key fob signal from inside the house and relays it to the car. Using this method, thieves are then able to drive away in a stolen vehicle in a matter of seconds.

The real value of new cars

WE'RE on the eve of another round of the orgy of madness and delusion that is the new plate registration and I want to focus on something it puts into stark relief – depreciation.

Think of just about anything you put sizeable chunks of money into, such as your mortgage or pension and, all things being equal, they should go up in value over time. But not your car.

Fair enough, a car is used and so simple wear and tear means it will be worth less when you come to sell it, but I cannot think of any other consumer item we buy which has such rapid and expensive depreciation as the four wheels sitting in your drive.

And with the imminent arrival of the 67-plate registration, the latest in this twice-a-year change we've had since the T-plate arrived in 1999, I think it is long overdue for someone to ask the question – is it really doing any favours to either the consumer or the trade?

In any given year perhaps as many as a third of the registrations happen in March and September with a lull before and after them.

In recent years March has averaged around 400,000 cars, September slightly less, but together they still account for about one in three new cars sold in a 12-month period.

Depending on who you talk to, a rough guesstimate leads to the conclusion that perhaps as many as a fifth of all new cars registered are not actually bought by a customer but taken as demonstrators, 'manager's specials' or whatever. It doesn't seem to matter so long as they get a number plate and are in paper terms, sold. But then, of course, they instantly become second hand.

In simple terms, far too many cars are chasing far too few customers but these ruses are a way for dealers to hit the sales targets set by their manufacturers and qualify for the bonuses which provide such a big part of their income.

But put that third of annual registrations and that fifth of cars with no real owner and you have the ingredients for huge and instant depreciation, not just on those cars but on all the ones now sitting in your driveway.

Don't believe me? Well, the other

NUMBER'S UP: The new 67-plate registration is due out soon day I did a short exercise looking at nearly new cars which are on sale within 10 miles of where I live and here are just a few examples from the many I found.

A Volvo XC90 2.0 TD with just 35 miles on at £49,000 which is some £6,500 off its list price. A Jag XE 2.0 diesel R-Sport auto with 11 miles under its wheels, £30,584 against £35,285 brand new.

Take the other end of the market where in a few minutes I found a Dacia Sandero Stepway, not a bad family car, with just 10 miles and on at £10,290 against £11,795 or a Vauxhall Adam 1.2 Energised with 10 miles and on at £10,500 against £14,725.

I could give you a list of similar cars running into the hundreds but it just shows the level and scale of depreciation which ultimately, anyone buying a new car has to fund.

And every time there is a new registration the ones with the previous plate lose that little bit more value.

So why do we do it twice a year and does anyone think it is working in the consumer's favour?

Knights on title charge

HAVERHILL will face Copdock in the semi-finals of the Suffolk T20 Cup in Bury St Edmunds next month after a fine all-round performance against Walsham le Willows.

Adam Dellar led the Knights to an imposing 218 for 4 with an unbeaten half-century on a good batting track.

And with the bowlers sticking to their game plan on the pitch with short boundaries, Walsham le Willows came up short on 190 for 8.

■ Harry Harding was the spearhead as Haverhill stormed to an eight-wicket win in their Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship, Division One clash against Braintree.

He took 6 for 19 off 10 overs – Chris Palmer chipped in with 2 for 12 – as Braintree slumped to 111. Anthony Phillips made an unbeaten 54 as Haverhill cruised to 115 for 2.

Elsewhere, the seconds came up one run short against Wivenhoe II in Division Three. Chasing 175 for 7, they reached 174 for 8 in a nailbiting conclusion.

Haverhill III lost by 19 runs in Division Nine. They were bowled out for 136 chasing Lakenheath II's 155 for 5.

FOILED: Alexander Sims in full flow before his victory bid was wrecked by a puncture

Sims woe on tyre-ing day

ALEXANDER Sims moved into second place in the IMSA WeatherTech SportsCar Championship standings after an impressive performance at the Michelin GT Challenge at Virginia International Raceway.

Sims and his BMW Team RLL team-mate Bill Auberlen dominated the majority of the 2hr 40min before a puncture took their #25 BMW M6 GTLM out of the lead in the closing stages.

West Wrattling drive Sims took the first stint, starting from second on the grid but leading for his 50-minute stint after thitting the front on the first lap.

Auberlen regained the lead after the pitstops but then had to come in after picking up a puncture. On that occasion the car did not lose any time, but despite trying to save fuel, Sims held on to first place until a second puncture 15 minutes from the end.

Sims came back out in fourth but, although there was no time for him to make up lost ground, Sims and Auberlen moved up one place in the overall standings in the GTLM class and are just 16 points behind the leaders with two races left.

"It's not the result we wanted after such a good race, but I'm still pleased we had a fast car here this weekend," said Sims. "We had a good shot of taking our third win of the season but it wasn't to be."

A 2hr 40min race at Mazda Raceway Laguna Seca is the final sprint round of the championship on September 24. The series ends with the 10-hour Petit Le Mans endurance race at Road Atlanta in October.

Rovers prove a point

HAVERHILL Rovers have bounced back from their first Thurlow Nunn League defeat of the season.

Days after suffering their first reverse of the Premier Division campaign against Walsham le Willows, Rovers completed their bank holiday weekend programme with a goalless draw at near-neighbours and promotion hopefuls Newmarket Town.

Rovers' unbeaten start to the season ended with a 4-1 defeat by Walsham le Willows at the weekend.

Walsham led after eight minutes when Tom Debenham reacted first to a corner to prod the ball home.

The lead only lasted for seven minutes, however, when Rory Jebb levelled for Rovers after a Jordan Palmer pull-back.

The score remained level until the 69th minute when Walsham re-took the lead after Reece Clarke's shot from 12 yards took a heavy deflection to get through keeper Charlie Turner.

It was 3-1 seven minutes later when Craig Nurse scored on the rebound after a smart save from Turner and Jack McDowell made it four with two minutes to go.

Rovers are at Clacton on Saturday and at home to Histon on Tuesday.

Haverhill Borough meanwhile beat Wivenhoe 2-1 on Monday, a handy boost before they play King's Langley in the Emirates FA Cup qualifying round on Saturday.

Wivenhoe scored with their first attack of the game, a strike from Billy Lato finding its way beyond Kieran Petty in the Borough goal.

However, Borough hit back 10 minutes later, with Rory Lee picking out Matthew Staines to apply the finish.

Staines got his second eight minute later when a long ball from Petty allowed him to nip in and score to make it 2-1 at the break.

Staines had the chance to get his hat-trick early in the second half but his header from Swallow's cross hit the top of the crossbar.

It was Borough's second win in a row after beating Kirkley 3-1, a match in both sides finished with 10 men after Borough's Casey Phillips and the home side's Dylan Blades were sent off.

Borough's goals came from Rory Bone, Ryan Kent and Staines.
